Bulletin for December 7, 2008

Second Sunday of Advent

John the Baptist's call to repentance is echoed in the U.S. bishops' pastoral letter on stewardship: "Christians must beg God for the grace of conversion: the grace to know who they are, to whom they belong, how they are to live—the grace to repent and change and grow, the grace to become good disciples and stewards."

Weeding the Garden of Our Hearts

We have some themes going in the Scriptures today that might make you very happy --- such as Isaiah's very first word: "Comfort!" The word itself is soothing, as in "comfort food". Well, today Isaiah brings out the comfort for the soul. "Comfort, console my people," says God, because the punishments the Israelites received for being unfaithful to God are finally over. Today, as we get closer to the coming of Jesus, Isaiah's theme is: "clear a pathway through the desert --- even out the rough places -- and shout it out: Your God is here!"

How are we doing at cleaning up the wilderness of our hearts for the Lord God to enter in? Many times, our hearts can feel as numb and empty as a wilderness --- maybe we just hear an echo, as if we're praying in a void. At other times, we feel so choked with injustice and cruelty of the world that we don't realize our hearts are like weed-infested gardens that desperately need clearing out. So it is when John pours water over the baptized at the River Jordan. Their eyes are opened, and they see new hope for their futures. They are so eager to clear out the dirt and weeds of their old lives, that they begin to pour out their sins, repenting, and become eager to change.

What is your idea of repentance? Remember that Isaiah says "Jesus is like a shepherd...gathering lambs in his arms, holding them against his breast..." Don't we all feel better when someone we've hurt wraps their arms around us and says, "It's Okay --- it's forgotten"? The Sacrament of Reconciliation offers that comfort in the name of Jesus. And when we ask to be changed, Jesus calls us to return to new life by receiving him into our hearts in Communion. Now, THAT'S comfort food.

Second Week of Advent

Prayer for Forgiveness

Merciful God,
John the Baptist prepared for the coming of Christ

by proclaiming a baptism for the repentance of sins.

In this Advent season, we prepare for Christ's coming by searching our hearts and asking your forgiveness.

Forgive us for loving you too little and our neighbors less than ourselves,
for preferring our will to yours,
for being lukewarm in prayer and timid in faith.

Forgive our harsh words and resentments,
our excuses, selfishness, and pride.
Grant us sorrow for our sins, forgiving hearts,
and the grace to amend our lives.
May we never despair of your mercy
but find our hope increasing as we await our Savior's birth. Amen.

Los Sencillos Simbolos de Adviento

(The humble symbols of Advent)

For a few days in December of 1531 at Tepeyac, a hillside northwest of Mexico City, the Virgin Mary appeared on several occasions to Juan Diego, a humble and poor Aztec Indian. For many Catholics, the image that miraculously appeared on Juan Diego's tilma is a true image of the Mother of God, patroness of the Americas. With her hands held together in prayerful reverence, just days away from giving birth to the Son of God, our Lady of Guadalupe is the most popular and venerated image of the Virgin Mary among Hispanics.

The feast day of Guadalupe falls just a few days after the feast of the Immaculate Conception, making the Virgin a loving and fitting symbol of Advent. While the Immaculate Conception is the bridge between hoping for a Savior to come and the arrival of salvation through Mary and the birth of Jesus, Our Lady of Guadalupe is the bridge of salvation between the New World and the Old World, between conqueror and those who were conquered.

And just as Mary responded with obedience and faith to God's calling, Juan Diego (whose feast day is celebrated on December 9th) accepted the mission given to him by the Virgin Mother. God placed his trust in Mary, a humble woman, and in turn, the Mother of God is the same when she appeared before a humble Aztec Indian.

Both Mary and Juan Diego accepted God's mission despite the difficulties they would certainly entail. While Mary endured the doubts over her son, Juan Diego faced the doubts of the bishop. After all, it is hard to believe God would send his son into this world to be born from a humble young woman or that the Mother of God would choose to appear before such a poor man. But as the scripture teaches us in the book of Sirach (Sr.3:20) "The Lord's power is great and he is honored by those who are humble."

Our Lady responded to Juan Diego's doubts by saying, "You are my ambassador, in you I place all my trust." When Juan Diego heard the words of the Virgin he was very much consoled, his heart became peaceful, and he accepted his mission. When Mary heard the angel announce she would give birth to the "Son of the Most High" by the power of the Holy Spirit, she responded with obedience, "I am the Lord's servant."

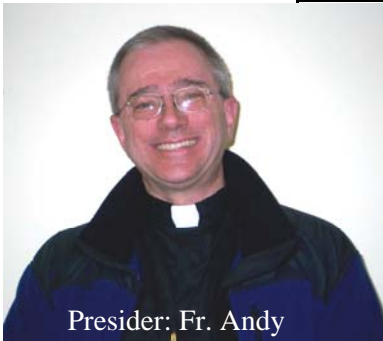

Just as the birth of a child born in meager circumstances changed the world, the faith and conversion of a poor but dignified Aztec Indian brought two worlds together, bringing many to believe in Mary and in the Son of God. By saying "yes", Mary of Guadalupe and Juan Diego, humble servants of the Lord, helped bring salvation to a world desperately in need of a Savior.
